TEACHING EXPERIENCE

Courses Taught in Last Three Years:

2020-21:

- Introduction to Population Health in the United States (SOC 172), Spring, 294 students

2019-20:

- Health and Society (SOC 469), Spring, 40 students
- Introduction to Population Health in the United States (SOC 172), Fall, 291 students
- Add Health Questionnaire Development Workshop (SOC 950), Fall, 10 students
- Demography: Theory, Substance, and Techniques (SOC 830, with B. Entwisle & E. Frankenberg), Fall, 5 students

2018-19:

- Introduction to Population Health in the United States (SOC1 172), Spring, 250 students
- Integrating Social and Biological Perspectives on Human Health (SOC1/EPID 823), Fall, 18 students
- Demography: Theory, Substance, and Techniques (SOC1 830, with B. Entwisle & P. Morgan), Fall, 16 students

Ph.D. Students Supervised (UNC-CH):

- Iliya Gutin, "A Growing Risk: Clinical, Epidemiologic, and Subjective Ambiguity in the Relationship between Weight and Health." Ph.D. completed 2021. Initial placement: Postdoctoral Fellow, Population Research Center, University of Texas-Austin.
- Alexis Dennis, "Racial/Ethnic Disparities in Mental Health among U.S.-Born Young Adults," ongoing
- Andrea Goodwin, ongoing
- Nafeesa Andrabi, ongoing
- Kaitlin Shartle, ongoing
- Reed DeAngelis, ongoing
- Fatima Touma, ongoing
- Katrina Branecky, ongoing
- 29 Ph.D. Students Supervised or Co-Supervised to Completion as a Faculty Member at UT-Austin, 1996-2015

Master's Students Supervised (UNC-CH):

- Denise Mitchell, "Contact with Law Enforcement and Young Adult Health," ongoing (with Kathleen Mullan Harris)
- Fatima Touma, "Immigration and Health Among American Adults," completed 2021 (with Jacqueline Hagan)
- Reed DeAngelis, "Race, Stress, and Cardiometabolic Health," completed 2020.
- Andrea Goodwin, "Race, Educational Attainment, and Infecundity/Infertility," completed 2020.
- Kaitlin Shartle, "Social Networks and Smoking among Young Adults," completed 2020.
- Nafeesa Andrabi, "Subjective Status and Adolescent Mental Health," completed 2019.
- Alexis Dennis, "Socioeconomic Status and Psychological Distress among Working-Aged African Americans," completed 2018.
- Iliya Gutin, "Unhealthy Returns to Education: Variation in BMI-Associated Premature Adult Mortality by Educational Attainment," completed 2017.
- 8 M.A. Thesis Students Supervised or Co-Supervised to Completion as a Faculty Member at UT-Austin, 1996-2015

Undergraduate Honor's Thesis Students Supervised (UNC-CH):

- Current: Abel Miranda Buzetta, Rebecca Zasloff
- Former: Niki Vemulapalli, Addie Coleman, Jennifer Hausler, Kadejah Murray
- 10 Undergraduate Thesis Students Supervised to Completion as a Faculty Member at UT-Austin, 1996-2015

Postdoctoral Scholars Supervised or Co-Supervised (UNC-CH):

- Stephanie Hernandez (ongoing)
- Zachary Fisher (now faculty member at Pennsylvania State University)
- Grace Noppert (now faculty member at University of Michigan)
- Carmen Gutierrez (now faculty member at UNC-CH)
- Elizabeth Lawrence (now faculty member at UNLV)
- Taylor Hargrove (now faculty member at UNC-CH)
- 1 Postdoctoral Scholar Supervised as a Faculty Member at UT-Austin

GRANTS AWARDED (total $89.4 million)

RESEARCH STATEMENT

My research program focuses on the accurate description and more complete understanding of population health patterns and trends in the United States. I have had an active federally funded grant portfolio for over two decades and actively publish my work, oftentimes with students and postdoctoral scholars, in leading scientific outlets. My work has been cited over 13,000 times to date. In 2020, I became the Co-Director (with Kathleen Mullan Harris) of the long-running National Longitudinal Study of Adolescent to Adult Health (Add Health), a nationally-representative longitudinal study of over 20,000 American adults who are now around 40 years old and have been followed since they were adolescents. Then in 2021, I became Director of Add Health with the funding of Wave VI from the National Institute on Aging. I am particularly interested in understanding how and why the physical, mental, and cognitive health of U.S. adults differs across racial/ethnic, gender, and socioeconomic subgroups of the population.

TEACHING STATEMENT

My teaching program mirrors my research: I am interested in communicating concepts, theories, methods, findings, and policy implications related to health and health disparities in the United States. I teach and mentor students of all levels at UNC, from first-semester undergraduate students to Ph.D.-level graduate students to postdoctoral trainees. I design my courses to be challenging, but also clear, well-organized, and well-managed. I aim to be an instructor and mentor who is extremely approachable and willing to help students reach their educational and career goals. My teaching program goes well beyond classroom instruction and mentoring; I am also interested in creating academic programs to enhance education at UNC. To date, I have led the creation of the popular Health & Society minor in the Department of Sociology and have co-led (with Allison Aiello in the Department of Epidemiology) the creation of the Biosocial Science Training Program at the Carolina Population Center.

SERVICE AND ENGAGEMENT STATEMENT

I am deeply involved in service to the UNC community and, even more so, to the scientific community at the national level. I view service as an important part of the job as a faculty member. Since I moved to UNC in 2015, I have been centrally involved in programs and initiatives in the Department of Sociology and Carolina Population Center, where I am working on making both units stronger than ever before. At the national level, my most important recent service roles have been at the Population Association of America, National Institutes of Health, the US Census Bureau, and the National Academies of Science, Engineering, and Medicine. At the present time, I am serving as President-Elect (2020), President (2021), and Past-President (2022) of the Population Association of America, which is a large and prestigious professional association dedicated to enhancing population research around the country and world.
